Assuris is the independent not-for-profit organization that protects Canadian policyholders if their life and health insurance company fails.

If you have life and health insurance from a member company, you already have Assuris protection.

Backed by the strength of the life and health insurance industry, Assuris provides a safety net for every Canadian policyholder.

Every life and health insurance company in Canada is required, by the federal, provincial, and territorial regulators, to become a member of Assuris under the Insurance Companies Act of Canada. Fraternal benefit societies and prepaid medical services companies can opt to become a member of Assuris. Member companies cannot terminate their membership as long as they have active business in Canada. A complete list of member companies can be found on our website at assuris.ca.
